

Dear Connections' Participants,

A Google Group has been created for you. We intend this be a place where you can ask each other questions about teachers/classes, Homeschool Connections' policies, post helpful information related to homeschooling, etc.

We will allow the general public to see the messages. Anyone may request an invitation to join, but we will be selective about who we approve. We want potential participants to get their questions answered, so we may permit non Homeschool Connections' folks to post questions.

The best part about the group is that it is optional. You do not need to join in order to participate in Connections'. You also have some flexibility about how you access the information. You can choose to have all of the posts delivered to your inbox OR read the posts online when you feel like it.

Please keep comments about specific teachers/classes positive. It's not OK to make negative comments about a teacher. We'll delete posts that we think are inappropriate. It is OK to say things like...."this teacher/class did work for my kids because..."

Here's the group address. Go there and send me an email, and I will let you in! Then you can start asking away.....

For now, I will be the moderator, but I would LOVE to share this job and even pass it on to someone else. Is there anyone out there who would be interested in helping with moderating? If so, let me know.

Thanks,
Vicki Boon
